

INSTRUCTIONS TO AUTHORS

ELECTRONIC SUBMISSION

Original manuscripts dealing with clinical or scientific aspects of otolaryngology, bronchoesophagology, head and neck medicine and surgery, maxillofacial and plastic surgery, audiology, speech pathology, or related specialties are considered for publication. All materials submitted for publication undergo peer review. Submit an electronic version of the manuscript and illustrations with signed copyright transfer statements (see “Copyright Transfer,” below).

Send files to Richard J. H. Smith, MD, Editor, at: annals-ori@uiowa.edu

All submitted manuscripts must be accompanied by a cover letter. This letter should disclose any financial interests the authors have in relation to the work, or any financial support provided by companies toward the completion of the work. Also, indicate whether the manuscript has been presented before any professional otolaryngological association and the place and date of presentation. You may list 3 names with e-mail addresses of potential reviewers. Manuscripts submitted without this letter will not be reviewed and will be returned to the author.

Software and format must be Microsoft Word. Do not use complex formatting or desktop publishing software. Do not send files with hidden text. For example, do not use your word processor’s automated features to create footnotes and reference lists. Submit text, tables, figures, and figure legends as a single file.

Illustrations should be in TIFF, EPS, JPEG, or PSD formats. Journal-quality reproduction will require grayscale and color files at resolutions of at least 300 dpi. Bitmapped line art should be submitted at resolutions of at least 1200 dpi. The illustrations should be submitted at approximately the size at which they will be published.

Written permission from both senior author and publisher must be provided to the Annals in order to republish tables or illustrations copyrighted elsewhere. Submit this permission with the manuscript.

Papers are scheduled for publication in chronological order of acceptance, but manuscripts received in improper form require longer production time. Manuscripts will be edited largely in accordance with the AMA Manual of Style (10th edition; 2007) and the Uniform Requirements for Manuscripts Submitted to Biomedical Journals: Writing and Editing for Biomedical Publication (updated April 2010; <http://www.icmje.org>).

Manuscripts not accepted for publication are not returned.

MANUSCRIPT PREPARATION

Limit papers to a size that will make up to no more than 6 printed pages, figuring 3 double-spaced typewritten pages of text to 1 journal page; see the journal for estimating space required for references, illustrations, and tables. If a manuscript of greater length is accepted for publication by the Editor, all journal pages in excess of 6 are charged to the author at the publisher’s cost of $175 per page. Set margins of at least 25 mm (1 inch), double-spaced throughout, including abstract, references, tables, and legends. Use a type size no smaller than 10 points, preferably 12. Begin each component on a new page in the following sequence: title page, abstract, text, acknowledgments, references, tables, and figure legends. Number pages consecutively in the upper right corner, beginning with the title page.

The author is responsible for all statements in the paper, as approved on the copyedited galley proofs. Alterations made by the author after the paper has been typeset may be charged to the author.

Use standard abbreviations given in the Uniform Requirements. Express all measurements in metric terms; if original measurements were made in another system, include these parenthetically. Plot audiograms according to ISO standards. Use generic names whenever possible.

Title page must include 1) a concise but informative title, worded to facilitate indexing; 2) an abbreviated form of the title to be used as a running head; 3) authors’ full names (we require all authors to define their contributions to the paper) and no more than two academic degrees per author; 4) department(s) and institution(s) to which the work is attributed, with authors’ present affiliations and addresses, if different, separately noted; 5) statement of grant or other support; 6) name and address of author to whom reprint requests should be sent; and 7) name, address, telephone and fax numbers, and e-mail address of corresponding author. Manuscripts that report animal research performed in the United States must carry the following statement on the title page: “This study was performed in accordance with the PHS Policy on Humane Care and Use of Laboratory Animals, the NIH Guide for the Care and Use of Laboratory Animals, and the Animal Welfare Act (7 U.S.C. et seq.); the animal use protocol was approved by the Institutional Animal Care and Use Committee (IACUC) of _____ University (or institution).”

Abstracts for all papers (including case reports) must be less than 200 words and structured to include objectives, methods, results, and conclusions.

Key Words, chosen as far as possible from the National Library of Medicine medical subject headings, should be listed after the abstract. A maximum of 6 are permitted.

References, double-spaced, should be numbered consecutively in the order in which they are cited in the text. Primary references should be used whenever possible. The author will be charged $2.00 for each reference in excess of 30. Use the style of references given in the Uniform Requirements or a recent issue of the Annals. Include the names of all authors and the inclusive page numbers of an article. If a manuscript accepted but not yet published is included in the reference list, give the accepting journal’s name, followed by “in press.” Manuscripts still in review or not yet accepted formally should be cited within the text as “unpublished observations.” A reference to a personal communication is also placed in the text, accompanied by a date (year). Papers presented at scholarly meetings but not published are considered “unpublished observations.” Papers published only in abstract form are listed as references with “[Abstract]” after the title.

Tables should be numbered consecutively and headed by a concise title. Put explanatory matter in footnotes. Tables are adjuncts to the text and should not repeat material presented therein. The cost of preparing tables is billed to the author.

Illustrations with multiple parts should be labeled (A, B, etc), but not on the illustration itself. Put legends (detailed explanations) to the illustrations on a separate page in the manuscript. Cite each figure in the text in consecutive order. Written permission from identifiable subjects is required. The cost of preparing illustrations for publication (scanning if necessary, sizing, lettering, etc) is charged to the author without exception. Color illustrations are accepted; cost estimates for color printing are provided on an individual basis. Illustrations should enhance, not repeat, material presented in the manuscript and should be kept to a minimum.

REPRINTS

Rates are quoted when galley proofs are sent to the author. Orders are signed by the author and returned with the proofs.

COPYRIGHT TRANSFER

A form for this purpose can be found on the Annals website:

www.Annals.com

That form, or the following statements, must accompany the manuscript, signed by all authors: 1) “I warrant that my contribution to the work is original and that I have full power to enter into this agreement. The content of this paper, all or in part, has not been published, has not been submitted for publication elsewhere, and is not in press elsewhere.” 2) “I verify that I have met all of the following criteria for authorship and am qualified to be listed as an author of this work by my substantive contribution to the conception and design of the project or analysis of the data, my drafting or critical revision of the content of this manuscript, and my approval of the final version to be published.” 3) “In consideration of the Annals of Otolaryngology, Rhinology & Laryngology taking action in reviewing and editing my (our) submission, I hereby transfer, assign, or otherwise convey all copyright ownership to Annals Publishing Company in the event such work is published in the Annals of Otolaryngology, Rhinology & Laryngology.” After acceptance, no author may be added to or removed from a paper.

SUPPLEMENTS

A manuscript too long for inclusion in the Annals (more than 12 typeset pages) may be published as a supplement if approved by the Editor. All costs are borne by the author, and estimates are provided upon request. Supplements have the advantages of separate identification and rapid publication, but undergo the same peer review as journal articles.

REVIEWS OF SOFTWARE AND COMPUTER APPLICATIONS

Programs submitted for review must be compatible with one of the following operating systems: Windows 2000 and above; or Macintosh OS 9.0 and above. The author must specify hardware and system requirements. Submit the software on CD. If the program is a template, submit also a runtime version of the source program. Software considered for review includes educational software, artificial intelligence software to aid in the diagnosis of otolaryngic disorders, software for logging operations, software to aid in research, and software that addresses specific problems in otolaryngology. Also, manuscripts reviewing software and computer applications relating directly to otolaryngology are considered for publication.
